

Ferritin

This test measures ferritin, a protein that stores iron in your body and reflects your overall iron levels. Low ferritin may indicate iron deficiency, leading to fatigue, hair loss, or weakened immunity, while high levels can signal inflammation or other health concerns. Monitoring ferritin helps ensure healthy iron balance to support energy, oxygen transport, and overall vitality.